Student testimonials

I really enjoy RE; it is such an important subject to learn. It's crucial that we learn about other people's beliefs and why they have those opinions, which may be different from our own. It helps you to respect other people's faith and choices in everyday life, which is really interesting and a key skill to have. You'll need RE all the way through your life with whoever you may meet

GCSE RE has allowed me to understand other people's beliefs which have benefited me in learning different lifestyles. It has helped me learn how to see matters from both sides, argue for each, and make up my own opinion on which argument is most convincing. The best part about RE is you're not right or wrong; you learn how to form your opinion and argue for what you think is right. I wish you all the best of luck and enjoy the course -
